

Contents

Table of figures	8
Introduction	9
Drivers of change	11
Equality of Opportunity & Compliance	11
The Social Model	12
Reasonable Adjustments	12
The benefits of inclusive practice to Higher Education Providers	14
Institutional Benefits	15
The Risk	16
The Opportunity	16
Strong and effective leadership	17
Driving institutional change in inclusive practice	18
Approaching barriers to implementation using inclusive practice	18
Simple actions to effect change	18
Evaluating and extending success	19
Wider work to support adoption of inclusive learning practices	20
Adopting a strategic approach to reasonable adjustments: risks and possible mitigations	21
Risk: HEPs not fully understanding their Equality Act 2010 requirements for reasonable adjustments	21
Background	21
How potential risks manifest	22
Recommended mitigating actions	22
Risk: HEP disability policy/practice not adhering to expectations set out in Technical Guidance	22
Background	22
How potential risk manifests	23
Recommended mitigating actions	23
Risk: HEPs not adequately responding to their enhanced requirements stemming from changes to DSAs	23
Background	23
How potential risks manifest	24
Recommended mitigating actions	24
Risk: Lack of clarity about what the concept of individual Reasonable Adjustments means in practice	24
Background	24
How potential risks manifest	25

Recommended mitigating actions	25
Risk: A lack of understanding of what constitutes a genuine Competence Standards	25
Background	25
How potential risks manifest	26
Recommended mitigating actions	27
Other considerations	27
References and further sources of advice and guidance	29
Annexes	31
Annex A: Background and context to the guidance	31
What is inclusive learning?	32
Stepping up to the challenge	32
Annex B: Disabled Student Sector Leadership Group membership	33
Annex C: Reasonable Adjustments Case Study Examples	34
De Montfort University	34
University of Brighton	36
Strategic Approach to Reasonable Adjustments, University of Cambridge	37